At the board this merning the transactions amounted to about two theurised hares, without varying the market value a fraction. Railroad bonds have been quiet for some time past, and are likely to continue so. The new board of management of the Parker Vein Coal Company was organised by the election of Augustus Clerk, President. The Board of Directors is composed of Thos. H. Falls, M. B. Bramball, W. D. Cromwell, Evan Stevenson, A. B. Marks, Henry Henny, David Stewart and John E. Howard. A committee was appointed to proceed to the office of the company and demand of the old officers all the books, papers, &c. The committee were informed that all the books, papers, &c., of the company, had been sent to Cumberland, and had been placed in the hands of the assignce. This unexpected announcement was a settler upon any further proceedings of the Reard, but it was determined that the most summary measures be taken to get hold of the company's accounts. If the books were sent away after the injunction had been issued, the parties concerned are clearly guilty of contempt; but if they were sent away before, at the asternment has been leavily made, the stockheld. tee appointed by the Board of Brokers have not yet orted. They had an interview with the new directors say, but we could not learn that they had arrived at ary conclusions.

At the second board there was no material change in prices, except in Eric and Reading. The former fell of % per cent and the latter % per cent. Cumberland closed as eighth better on time—Michigan Southern % per cent

We, the undersigned, having made a trial of the Breck-enridge coal, on the steamer Bavid White, running between Leuisville and Checkment, would state that we have used Pittaburg, Formeroy, and all other coals, on the Ohloriver, for the purpose of generating steam and propelling steamboats, and we heattate not to say that one ton of Breckinsridge coal is equal, in our epinion, to three tons of any other coal on the Ohlo river, and one ton of it is equal, for the purpose of generating steam, to 880 word of oil, and are free to state that no pine knot, nor any other combustible matter we have ever seen, can compare with the Breckenridge, coal for generating steam. There is no cinder in the Breckenridge, coal to fill up the grates, and we are free to any that this coal is the perfection of fuel for steamont purposes.

certain communication is opened via Panama.

By our last advices shipments had fallen off in England, and few vessels were leaving the United States, but the fact of any being on the way is sufficient to prevent any reaction.

Since our arrival in May, the market has been governed, not by foreign wars or short crops, but by what comes inside the Heads. The arrivals from the States have fully kept pace with former months, and we have to report since the 27th of January, twelve ships, four barks, one brig, and two schooners, as having entered at the Custom House from American ports—mostly from New York and Boston—with assorted cargoes, bearing a large proportion of lumber.

With such continued importations it is utterly impossible to lessen the stocks which have been accumulating during the past year. Lave us by ourselves for a few months, without an arrival to report, and we promise to give you more cheering accounts. We must have a respite before the trade will be worth following. So long as supply continued in excess of demand, prices cannot be remunerative to the shipper; although our powers of consumption are beyond those of any other country, we are not yet prepared to dispose of the surplus products of the shipping world.

The customs returns show the following stariling results in regard to the commerce of this cokony for the year 1853. Imports £15, £42, £637 (£1, £68, £06 of which are from the United States): Exports £11, 661, £43, showing an indebtedness of aearly £5, 600,000.

Notwithstanding the number of warehouses that have gone up in every street, storage has a tendency to advance. Winter is approaching and several cargoes in the layare waiting transportation to Melbourne, which will soon raise the rate of lighterage to its old figure.

The gold fields still continue prolific, and the price is most remunerative to the digger. The average production since the last of January, 1854, has been about £2, 600,000.

On the £1st insight the banks advanced the rate of exchange to three price of the storage importation, now on hand, is quite sour; and as there is no medium between sour and sweet Sour, a serious loss accrues to shippers.

Cornmeal is gradually making itself known. The low price at which the first lots were sold brought purchasers, who generally returned for more. The market is now bare.

The Callac passenger trade brought pilot and navy bread in to the market, and the large quantity stored was charged off, at about 2d, to 24d, and as there is very little in first hands we look for an advance in price. This article should be packed in barrels, and not in pipes.

little in first hands we look for an advance in price. This article should be packed in barrels, and not in pipes.

Rica.—The sudden influx of Chinese has thrown new life into the rice trade; we know of none in first hands. Good Carolina rice, in barrels, would sell readily at a profit.

As the winter approaches, long-legged, thick boots begin to be inquired for. The Hungarian boots, usually invoiced as long legged, from the United States, are too short; they should be eighteen inches. Those having twenty-seven inch legs are very saleable during the wet season. In previous circulars we have been explicit in advising shippers to time their shipments so as to meet the season. Light boots will not be wanted until September. Brogans and shoes are not saleable at any time. Receipts of lumber are unabated. In addition to the large arrivals from the East Indies, Europe, and the United States, we note several vessels in from New Brunswick and the Canadas. £10½ M. in the bay is about the value of American hard and white pine tongued and grooved ficoring boards, at which the Humboldt's cargo of 600,000 feet, assorted, sold. As the government is now opening the lands, large lots of lumber are taken into the interior, and the low prices ruling have induced extensive building. Three months hence, this article we think will be sold at remunerative prices. Doors and windows are down, but yet give a small profit, The disturbances in China have not effected the tea market, as was supposed. Large holders in Sydney not having sufficient confidence sold out at a loss, which suddenly knocked down the nominal price here. The teas by the Great Britain and Benjamin Heape are still in first hands; and no purchasers could be found at the auction sale of the former atlabors £4.10 for Hyson skins, and £6 for Congous; and even these prices could not be obtained fee large lots.

The market is well supplied with English and German furniture, and the arrival of the Edward and Ocean Steod from New York, has brought a large quantity of American
